| At first, Siara and Hannah were nervous when their parents called them in for a family |
|--|
| meeting. They knew the meeting was important when Dad announced that the subject had the for |
| high emotions! During the meeting, they discovered that their father had "signed them up" as |
| volunteers to babysit the Davis boys, known to all as mischievous and rambunctious. They were actually very |
| pleased with the news, since they were both and people. They often helped out |
| when their cousins got into disputes, and settled the situations with an |
| eye, while making sure to keep the disagreements |
| So they looked forward to their first day with five-year-old Gunner and seven-year-old Heath, even |
| though they were a tiny bit that the boys might be a challenge. Were they ever right!! As soon as |
| Hannah opened the door at the Davis home, Heath charged into the family room screaming, "We don't need any |
| babysitters!! We can take care of ourselves!" |
| Siara knew that the Hot Wheels car she held in her hand might be in "winning him over," |
| so she whimpered, "Where can I put this very important item so it won't get lost?" When Heath and Gunner |
| eyed the blue and yellow Force 5 Zoom and Chopper, they sprang toward Siara and each pledged to keep it |
| safe for her by holding the shiny blue chopper in their pockets. Siara quickly handed to toy toward Heath and |
| promised to turn it over to him ONLY if he agreed to behave during her stay. He pledged good behavior, while |
| Gunner wailed(ly) as the chopper was turned over to Heath. |
| "I have one lonely old red Ferrari in my bag for anyone who behaves," Hannah suddenly announced. At |
| the sight of the shimmering toy, Gunner's wail subsided and he turned on a fake, smile. Since both |
| boys behaved well for the rest of the afternoon, Hannah and Siara's parents complimented each of them on their |
| talent for solving problems. |
